

Institutions And Regulation For The Fourth Industrial Revolution

*Hoover IP², Stanford University
Liège Competition and Innovation Center, Liège University Center for Intellectual Property, University of Gothenburg*

3 MAY 2019
SOFITEL BRUSSELS LE LOUISE
SALON METAMORPHOSE

What institutions, policies, rules, and regulations will maximize economic surplus generated in the fourth Industrial Revolution? How can institutions, policies, rules, and regulations be written and developed to provide incentives and to encourage trade to the benefit of multiple parties?

AGENDA

8.00 Registration

8.30 Welcome and Introduction

Nicolas Petit, University of Liège and Hoover Institution

Bowman Heiden, CIP and Hoover Institution

8.45 Keynote address

Stephen Haber, Stanford University and Hoover Institution

9.15 Panel 1: IoT: Royalty Setting and Patent Policy

How should royalties be apportioned in FRAND-enabled standards? What role do regulatory agencies and the courts play in establishing royalty levels if markets or inter-firm negotiations fail? Will these determinations become more challenging with the massive growth of IoT and interconnectivity?

Moderator: Bowman Heiden, CIP and Hoover Institution

Presenters: Gunther Friedl and Christoph Ann, Technische Universität Munich

“A Cost-Based Approach for Calculating Royalties for the Use of Standard-Essential Patents (SEPs)”

<https://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/abs/10.1111/jwip.12104>

Alexander Galetovic, Universidad de los Andes and Hoover Institution, and Stephen Haber, Stanford University and Hoover Institution

“What Theory of Value and Distribution Should Courts Apply?” <https://hooverip2.org/working-paper/wp19001>

Discussant: Jonathan Barnett, USC Gould School of Law

10.45 Break

11.00 Panel 2: Autonomous Vehicles: Changing Markets, Business Models and Institutions?

How will the advent of autonomous vehicle technology alter the structure of markets, open up new business opportunities, and challenge current institutional foundations? What types of rules and regulations are necessary and appropriate for AV technologies? How will these developments affect the role of patents, standards development, knowledge transfer (e.g., open source programming, patent pools, public domain), and government?

Moderator: Keith Bergelt, Open Invention Network

Panelists: Monica Magnusson, Ericsson

Yann Ménière, European Patent Office

Rud Peters, Philips

Matthias Schneider, Audi

12.15 Lunch

13.30 Panel 3: Digital Platforms: Antitrust and Regulation

What is the role of antitrust agencies in regulating platform markets in the digital economy? Will the rise of the IoT pose new antitrust concerns? How should issues such as large multinational firms be approached? What is the threshold for "large", "big," or "dominant"?

Moderator: Pieter Van Cleynenbreugel, University of Liège

Presenters: Nicolas Petit, University of Liège and Hoover Institution

"Are FAANG Monopolies? A Theory of Disequilibrium Competition with Uncertainty"

<https://hooverip2.org/working-paper/wp19004>

15.00 Break

15.15 Panel 4: Globalization, Industrial Champions and 21st Century Protectionism?

Is strict European competition policy limiting European firms from the scale necessary to compete on global markets with US and Chinese firms? Should the law require the definition of global markets in merger reviews to account for foreign competition? Should "industrial policy" standards be introduced into merger law? Should foreign State Owned Enterprises be limited in their ability to enter Western markets by way of strategic mergers with domestic firms?

Moderator: Richard Sousa, Hoover Institution

Panelists: Pascal Belmin, Airbus

Justus Haucap, Duesseldorf Institute for Competition
Economics

Can Huang, Zhejiang University

Paul Seabright, Toulouse School of Economics

Jim Venit, Dentons
